Car Hits Tree

Fellow Law Student Who Drove Car Was Asleep
at Wheel

Robert Gwynne Chambers, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert H. Chambers of Maple Lane Farm, Albany avenue extension, was fatally injured at Saratoga Springs about 5 o'clock Sunday morning while returning to Albany from a dance which had been held at Skidmore College at Saratoga.

Mr. Chambers, a second year law student at Albany Law School, died of a fractured vertebrae in Saratoga Hospital shortly after the car in which he was riding struck a tree opposite the hospital at Saratoga Springs. Augustus Nasmith, 23, of Rochester, driver of the car, it was said had fallen asleep at the wheel.

Dr. F. S. Eaton, Saratoga county coroner, said death was almost instantaneous. Nasmith was treated for slight injuries at the hospital and then discharged. No charge was made against the driver of the car.

Saratoga Springs police said Chambers was riding with Augustus Nasmith of 355 State street, Albany, a friend, when the car left the roadway in Church street near the Saratoga hospital and struck a tree.

The crash brought to a tragic end an evening of gaiety at Skidmore College where the two young men had been attending a dance. Nasmith, a fellow student of law, was driving the car back to Albany when the accident happened.

Robert G. Chambers received his early education at No. 7 school, where he was president of his class in 1931 on graduation. He then attended Kingston High School and was graduated in the class of 1935 and attended Williams College at Williamstown, Mass., from which he was graduated in 1939. While attending Williams College he was president of his fraternity, Theta Delta Chi, and he was also manager of the Williams track team.

Mr. Chambers was prominent in the younger social set in Kingston and had served as chairman and as a committee member for various Bachelors' and Spinsters' balls and had also been active in local assemblies.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert H. Chambers, he is survived by two sisters, Emeline Gwynne and Elizabeth Gwynne Chambers of this city. His father is associated with the Stuyvesant Motors of this city and is vice president of the Kingston Oil Company, Inc.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the First Dutch Church with interment in Wiltwyck cemetery. Friends may call at the A. Carr and Son Funeral Parlor, 1 Pearl street, this afternoon and evening until noon Tuesday. The casket will not be opened in the church.

Would Favor Action

Washington, April 21 (AP)—Sidney Hillman, associate director of the office of production management, testified today that "if it becomes necessary," he would favor the government taking over and operating defense plants in which production had been stopped by strikes. At the same time, however, he told the Senate committee investigating the defense program that he did not think such action necessary now and that no other legislation was needed to deal with strikes.

Will Hold Clinics

Dr. C. L. Gannon, health officer, will hold toxoid and vaccination clinics on Wednesday at the East Kingston and Emma Wygant Schools. Dr. Gannon and the county nurses will be at the East Kingston School at 9 o'clock and at the Emma Wygant School at 10 o'clock. The serums are available to all pre-school and school age children.

Charges Men of Press

Jacksonville, Fla., April 21 (AP)—Declaring that national defense in a democracy must not be measured alone in terms of tanks, battleships, planes and munitions, Roy A. Brown, San Rafael, Calif., president of the National Editorial Association, today urged newspapermen "not to shirk their responsibility."

Fire Nears Lakehurst

Lakehurst, N. J., April 21 (AP)—A four-thousand forest fire raged more than 20 miles through parched pine-land today, reaching the outskirts of Lakehurst and the U. S. naval air station where thousands battled to halt its advance.

Janitor Quizzed in Church Death

Akron, O., police questioned Albert B. Lukens, 58-year-old church janitor, regarding a scuffle which he said preceded the incineration of the body of Ruth Zwicker, 23-year-old music teacher, in the furnace of the church. Lukens, who police said admitted he beat to death a woman in Cincinnati 44 years ago, denied killing Miss Zwicker, but admitted putting her body in the furnace, according to detectives.

1,000-Acre Blaze Sweeps Sullivan County Township

Rockland, Orange Counties Also Fight Fires as State Announces Situation Grave

Albany, N. Y., April 21 (AP)—Cooling breezes brought relief today to brow-mopping New Yorkers but the state's forest fire situation still was considered critical.

Although all of the fires burning in the state were brought under control during the night, conservation department officials were concerned over what might happen later today.

Biggest blaze is at Toronto reservoir, town of Bethel, Sullivan county, where more than 1,000 acres is aflame. Other serious fires are in Rockland and Orange counties.

The weather, meanwhile, continued fair and cooler than yesterday when records were shattered in many areas.

Overnight winds ranging from 10 miles at New York city to 34 at Buffalo helped sleepers, as mid-night temperatures stood at 45 to 71 after shattering April 20 records of many years.

New York city's midnight 74 was but four degrees below the day's high of seven hours earlier which sent 400,000, including a few bathers, to Coney Island. In 1927, the city's April 20 high was 88.

Chief Forester Raymond B. Adolph of Palisades Interstate Park reported cherry and arbutus blossoms out, a week and a half ahead of time, by contrast with snow found still lying in the shadowy recesses of Bear Mountain woods.

Interest Law Is Signed Governor Approves More Drastic of Proposals Sent by Legislature; Maximum Rate Established

Albany, N. Y., April 21 (AP)—Governor Lehman's approval of a sharp reduction in maximum interest on small loans assured today financial relief for an estimated 500,000 borrowers who, he said, in many cases cannot "bargain for credit."

Climaxing one of the 1941 Legislature's bitterest controversies, the governor signed the more drastic of the interest-reduction formulas sent to him by lawmakers. The new statute establishes a maximum monthly rate of two and one-half per cent on the first $100, and two per cent on the balance.

It was sponsored by Republican Assemblyman Frank A. Gugino, Erie county, and carries out recommendations of Lehman's annual message to the Legislature.

Coinciding with its approval, the chief executive vetoed the bill of Republican Senator Pliny W. Williamson, Westchester county, which would have retained the three per cent rate for the first $100, instead of $150, but proposed reduction of charges on the balance to two per cent.

Williamson, chairman of the Senate banks committee, asserted during legislative debate any more drastic reduction would "revive loan sharks" by driving licensed lenders out of business.

Asserting many small borrowers seek money for "necessities," the governor said "in the main . . . they are not in a position to bargain for credit."

"It is clearly the duty of the state to regulate these terms in order that advantage may not be

Rotterdam Oil Supplies, Docks at Dunkerque And Ostend Also Are Bombed

London Has Alarm

Sirens Give Warning at Mid-day in Anglo Capital

London, April 21 (AP)—British bombers started large fires in Cologne last night and also raided Duesseldorf and the docks at Brest, on the German-occupied French coast, the air ministry announced today.

Oil stores at Rotterdam and the docks at Dunkerque and Ostend also were bombed, the ministry said.

A heavily laden ship of 3,000 tons was hit and left sinking off the coast of Norway and other shipping was attacked off the Dutch coast, it declared, and other aircraft bombed the airdrome near Caen.

Although visibility was poor, the air ministry said, bursts were observed on the quays and near the drydock at Brest, and large fires were started at Cologne.

Air raid sirens shrieked a mid-morning alarm in London, but the all-clear followed 30 minutes later.

In the only activity over Britain yesterday, some bombs fell in east and southwest England in the night, the government said, and two Scottish towns were strafed during the day. A three-year-old boy was reported killed by machine gun bullets in one Scotch town.

Shipping Is Attacked

During the day, the R. A. F. struck at German shipping in the Channel and at Brest and other points on the German-held French coast. A 5,000-ton Axis ship was reported sunk and an 8,000-tonner damaged. One Nazi plane was reported destroyed and the admiralty reported today that two others had been shot down by the mine sweeper Basset yesterday.

The big German cannon on the French coast sent a few shells across Dover strait yesterday.

In the meantime, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander told a London audience that regardless of "armchair critics" the British government had no need to apologize for its decision to send troops to Greece.

He said the tonnage of Italian transports destroyed by the British navy ran into "six figures" and predicted that an increasing toll of German submarines and long range planes would be taken in the battle of the Atlantic.

One of the Nazis' best sub commanders, Alexander said, is dead and another, Commander Otto Kretschmer, is a prisoner.

The government acknowledged many casualties and heavy damage to the British navy in the raid on London by the Luftwaffe, which was almost as bad as that of Wednesday night.

The minister of public security of northern Ireland yesterday declared nine districts, covering the whole of Northern Ireland, to be defense areas. Belfast, capital of Northern Ireland, was raided heavily by the Germans last Tuesday night.

Grass Fires Reported

Several grass fires kept the fire department busy Sunday. The first was that afternoon at 1 o'clock for a fire at Florence and Farrelly streets and another that evening on the Newcombe property off Manor avenue. This morning at 8:30 o'clock the fire department responded to a call for a fire in some rubbish on Delaware avenue at the top of the hill leading down into Ponckhockie.

Greeks Announce New Cabinet And Admit Gains by Nazis

Tsouderos Has Been Active in Public Life of Greece for More Than 20 Years and Is Economist; Italians Are Being Held

Athens, Greece, April 21 (AP)—Air war in the style of the battle of Britain surged over Athens as British and Greeks, allies in a desperate struggle on the plains and mountains of Thessaly, withdrew to new, undisclosed positions in the face of the German advance.

The British announced today that 16 German planes were shot down Sunday—14 of them over this seat of ancient democracy in a single battle with a "very large formation" of Nazi dive-bombers and fighters.

Many others of the raiders were crippled, the British said, but admitted destruction of seven of their own fighters, with four of the pilots. (A German radio broadcast said 11 British planes were shot down over Greece yesterday.)

The British took their new positions after the Germans penetrated a Greek-held pass at Grevena in the center of the Mount Olympus line Friday.

The retirement was said to be "in conformity" with the "movement of the Greek army" on the left.

Australians and New Zealanders were declared to have fought a "brilliantly conducted" covering maneuver, exacting immense losses among the Germans.

The Germans have taken Karditsa, 40 miles north of Lamia, after passing Trikala.

The Greeks admitted they also had withdrawn as a result of a defeat on the right of their line, but said they were holding their new positions and had stemmed the Italian attacks on the northwest.

Premier Is Chosen

Athens, Greece, April 21—Emmanuel Tsouderos became premier of wartime Greece today, succeeding Alexandros Korizis, who committed suicide last Friday.

The new government was announced on the right of their line, but said they were holding their new positions and had stemmed the Italian attacks on the northwest.

Tsouderos had been named minister of foreign affairs and finance in the cabinet formed yesterday by Admiral Alexander Sakellariou as vice premier and the king in the dual role of monarch and premier.

Tsouderos, in his fifties, has been active in Greek public life for more than 20 years. He is a native of the island of Crete and began a political career with his election to Parliament in 1920.

One of Greece's leading economists, he carried on negotiations with Britain in 1926 for settlement of the Greek war debt.

On the war front meanwhile the Greeks said that the Italians were being stemmed on the west flank of the Allied line but that on the east the front gave way under the weight of Nazi pressure.

New Stand Taken

A Greek communiqué declared a new stand had been taken after the week-end withdrawal south of Mt. Olympus and said that line—its location not specified—held doggedly against violent attacks and nowhere was broken.

The Germans, describing the Greek campaign as entering its final phase, said yesterday the fighting had developed into a hot chase of the British and Greeks across the plains of Thessaly south of captured Larissa toward the port of Volos, and reported the capture of Trikala, directly west of Larissa and 45 miles southwest of Olympus.

Secretary Jesse H. Jones Praises Defense Activity, But Warns Against Complacency Among American People

New York, April 21 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones declared today that although defense activity is "better than good," there is no room for American "complacency."

"There is no place for indifference," Jones said in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria.

The secretary coupled a report of progress in defense over the past year with two warnings:

"If the aggressor nations are successful, our generation is apt to see little of tranquility."

"If we are to get ready to defend ourselves, let's be sure that we do a good job of it."

Former Magneto Plant Now Owned By Defense Unit

Price of $325,000 Given as Amount of Purchase and $75,000 Is for Equipment

Title to the former Apollo Magneto Corporation plant on Grand street was transferred a few days ago to The Defense Plant Corp.

Under the transfer federal funds to the amount of $400,000 will be invested in the plant and in improvements and equipment for the manufacture of hydraulic equipment for the United States navy bombers and pursuit planes by the Electrol Aircraft Corp., which acquired the interests of the Apollo Magneto Corp. on December 18, 1940.

Announcement of the purchase of the plant with federal funds was made by President Stanley H. Brown of Electrol, Inc., in New York. Purchase of the plant by the Defense Plant Corp. is an entirely separate transaction from the transfer of the business by Apollo to the Electrol Corp. last December.

The allotment of funds for purchase of the local plant by the government "is in keeping with the policy of the government to invest funds in plants which are engaged in the manufacture of armaments for national defense."

Approximately $325,000 of the Defense Plant Corp. investment represents the purchase price of the major portion of the Apollo Corporation plant here. The balance is said to have been allocated for the purchase of equipment and additional machinery. Simultaneous with the purchase of the plant with government funds the plant was leased to the Electrol Corp. at a nominal figure for the manufacture of defense equipment.

The Electrol Corp. has orders for the hydraulic equipment for planes to the amount of about $1,000,000. This work will be carried out at the Kingston plant as well as at the Clifton, N. J., plant and deliveries from both plants are expected to be materially stepped up now that financial matters have been taken care of. It is estimated that sales volume will reach $3,000,000 annually from the two plants.

At the local plant two shifts are working ten hours each in the production of equipment. Additional machines will be added (Continued on Page Two)

The Quality Maple Block Company in the former Lorillard plant on Grand street has been awarded an $86,000 contract by the War Department to furnish 400 meat blocks. The delivery date was not disclosed, according to an AP dispatch. The meat blocks ordered here are for the Quartermaster Corps of the U. S. Army, and the order placed with the local concern is part of a contract totalling $13,370,578 placed by the War Department.

Greek Communiqué Says Germans Have Not Knifed Through Allied Lines

New Stage Seen

Germans Say British Prepare to Fight in Suez Zone

(By The Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's rampaging Panzer columns were reported less than 150 miles from Athens today, thrusting south along the 60-mile-wide plain of Thessaly in central Greece, as the allies acknowledged they have fallen back again to a new, shorter defense line.

Apparently the next major stand by the British and Greeks was to be made in the southern mountain barriers guarding the approach to Athens between the Gulf of Corinth and the Aegean port of Lamia.

British middle east headquarters said the British withdrawal was "in conformity with the movement of the Greek army fighting on their left."

Australian and New Zealand troops executed "brilliant" rear-guard actions which inflicted a heavy toll on the Germans, the British communiqué said.

Meanwhile, a Havas (French news agency) dispatch from Sofia said the Bulgarian army started this morning to occupy sections of northern Greece and fallen Yugoslavia.

With Hitler himself directing the blitz from a railway car somewhere in the Balkans, the German high command asserted that Nazi mechanized forces were driving south "far beyond Larissa" in pursuit of retreating British and Greek troops.

A Greek communiqué, however, declared that the new allied line was holding doggedly under violent assault, and that nowhere had the Germans knifed through.

"Other German forces advancing across the Pindus Mountains to the west took a mile-high pass near Metsovon, 40 miles northwest of Trikala," the Nazi high command said.

"In Albania, Italian troops in a further advance reached the Greek border at many points."

Italian press dispatches said "a big battle to wipe out the Greek army" was raging at Perati Bridge, which spans the Viosia river at the Greek-Albanian frontier.

Italian dive-bombers were said to have destroyed the bridge, trapping the Greeks on the Albanian side; but the Greeks declared that they had stemmed Fascist attacks in the west.

London newspapers openly discussed the possibility of a complete withdrawal of British expeditionary forces from the Aegean kingdom, and talk centered on the arrival of British troops in Iraq as indicating that the next big stage of the war may be a struggle for the Suez Canal and the rich oil fields of the middle east.

The Germans asserted that British troops were retreating toward harbors in southern Greece.

Stefani, the official Italian news agency, declared yesterday that the Greek army was losing "four-fifths of its permanent forces and all the war material supplied by Britain."

On the North African front, Mussolini's high command reported that Italian and German troops halted a British attempt to land reinforcements near Bardia, Libya, 10 miles from the Egyptian border, and that they had captured all British soldiers who "succeeded in setting foot ashore."

This was an apparent attempt by the British to reinforce their columns battling to stem the Axis drive across Egypt toward the Suez Canal.

Fascist officials also asserted that the Duke D'Aosta, Italian commander in East Africa, had rejected a British demand for unconditional surrender of his army to insure protection of the Italian population.

In the air war of the west, the Germans said residential districts were bombed last night by some R.A.F. forces which penetrated the western frontier of the Reich and the British reported few casualties and little damage from scattered raids over England.

Doughton Has Plan For Taxes, Holds Back on Publicity

Gives as Reason He Does Not Wish to Alarm People; Sullivan Gives Program

Washington, April 21 (AP)—The treasury submitted a detailed program to the House ways and means committee today for raising $3,500,000,000 in new taxes, but Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) declined to divulge the plan. He said he did not wish to "alarm the people over something that might not happen."

The committee, he added, would approve only as much of the program "as we think is wise." The meeting was behind closed doors. Doughton said that treasury officials and the staff of the joint committee on internal revenue taxation, an instrument of Congress, differed on "some points" as to how the tremendous sum should be raised.

The committee, he asserted, would allow the two staffs a few days to "get together" on methods. The treasury's proposal was presented by John L. Sullivan, assistant secretary. Doughton said that Colin Stam, chief of staff of the joint committee, and his aides, would make suggestions at another closed committee meeting tomorrow.

No Vote Taken

The chairman told reporters that no vote was taken on whether the committee would approve the treasury's plan for financing government expenditures during the fiscal year 1942 on a basis of two-thirds taxes and one-third borrowing.

Doughton and several other Democratic and Republican congressional tax leaders approved the principle of such a plan last week at a conference with Secretary Morgenthau. Morgenthau said the estimated budget for the year was $19,000,000,000, meaning that more than $12,000,000,000 would have to be raised in taxes under the program.

On the other side of the capital, meanwhile, Senator Glass (D., Va.) recommended that under present circumstances "every penny with any income ought to pay taxes."

Endorsing the idea of higher levies, Glass told reporters that universal taxation "in this emergency" was "imperative." It would have a salutary effect, he said, for "when people have a responsibility for providing the money they also will have a responsibility to watch how it is spent by Congress."

As the House committee began its search for more money sources, predictions were made freely in informed circles that the tremendous new revenue program would necessitate an increase of from 25 to 50 per cent in existing taxes, a return of many World War levies and the tapping of untouched fields.

There was talk that the present basic 44 percent rate levied against individual incomes might be increased to eight, Senator Clark (D., Idaho) said it should be more.

Despite the expressed coolness of President Roosevelt to a general sales tax, discussion of such a levy persisted.

Michigan Governor Discusses Threat With President

(By The Associated Press)
Governor Van Wagoner of Michigan discussed a threatened strike in General Motors plants with President Roosevelt in Washington today, and reported on settlement of the recent Ford Motor Company strike.

Governor Van Wagoner said there was no detailed talk on the General Motors situation but indicated he had complete faith the Michigan mediation board could handle any labor disputes arising in his state with settlement being achieved "around the conference table."

The C.I.O. United Automobile Workers served a five-day strike notice against General Motors last week. It wants a union ship and higher wages. Union spokesmen announced that no defense work would be struck.

Meanwhile, the contract deadlock which has halted soft coal production in the eight-state Appalachian area since April 1 continued.

Steel circles already were beginning to feel the pinch of a coal shortage which resulted when C.I.O.'s United Mine Workers of America failed to reach a contract agreement with southern mine operators. Northern operators agreed to a $1 a day raise, but the southerners balked at a demand that they also pay $7 a day, eliminate a 40 cent a day differential in their favor.

An appeal by Secretary Perkins Saturday for resumption of work tomorrow met no favor with any of the interested parties. The United Mine Workers replied they were willing to resume negotiations with the southern operators in New York. The southerners insisted that they had definitely withdrawn from the Appalachian wage conference which included northern operators, but reiterated willingness to negotiate separately. They renewed last night an offer to reopen the mines with an 11 per cent wage increase.

that they have a reasonable period in which to bring up their reinforcements for a drive against the Axis forces. However, time is on the wing and the Turks undoubtedly are under a great strain. Hitler's diplomatic assault is in the hands of his envoy to Ankara, Franz von Papen. The ambassador has one of the shrewdest brains in Germany and is no novice in this type of work. It will be recalled that the United States asked to have him withdrawn as military attaché at Washington in 1915, under grave suspicion of plotting against American neutrality.

Von Papen is reported, though without confirmation, to be in Berlin trying to work out a scheme which will bring the Turks under German domination. If Hitler could get free passage of his troops through Turkey he would be sitting pretty. Short of that, he certainly wants to ensure Turkish neutrality.

to the local factory and additional skilled mechanics will be added to step up the production. At present there is a slowing up of operations at the Grand street plant because of the lack of sufficient skilled machinists to carry on the precision operations which the work makes necessary. The corporation can use a considerably greater number of skilled mechanics.

Delivery of part of the defense order is to be made next month and after that there will be a continuous flow of materials from the local plant.

gathering agency's members from many parts of the country.

Some 600 publishers, editors and business managers of newspapers throughout the United States and Canada are in New York for the meeting and for the annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, starting tomorrow.

Six directors of the Associated Press will be elected today to three-year terms. Five of the six whose terms are expiring have been nominated to succeed themselves, and seven additional candidates have been named by the nominating committee led by J. S. Parks of the Fort Smith (Ark.) Times-Record.

Directors whose terms are expiring are Frank B. Noyes, Washington Star, former president of the Associated Press; Robert McLean, publisher of the Philadelphia Bulletin and president of the AP; Paul Patterson, Baltimore Sun; Harry J. Grant, Milwaukee Journal; E. H. Butler, Buffalo News, and Josh L. Horne, Rocky Mount (N. C.) Telegram. Grant is not a candidate for re-election.

The seven additional nominees are George F. Booth, Worcester (Mass.) Telegram; Col. J. H. Long, Huntington (W. Va.) Advertiser; James E. Chappell, Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald; O. S. Ward, Great Falls (Mont.) Tribune; Henry N. Conland, Hartford (Conn.) Courant; William R. Mathews, Tucson (Ariz.) Star, and W. T. Dewart, New York Sun.

Dewart has asked that his name be withdrawn due to inability to serve.

Tomorrow's convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association will center about a chief topic of national defense as it relates to newspaper publishing. Already publishers have considered the opportunity for service by newspapers in the national emergency, and, at a recent New York meeting, representatives of national, regional and state associations issued this three-fold statement:

That the newspapers recognize their primary obligation to further national defense in every possible manner.

That the newspapers also recognize their essential duty to furnish complete and accurate information compatible with military necessities.

That the newspapers in the performance of these obligations be speak the cordial consideration and cooperation of federal and state authorities concerned with national defense.

Among those picked up were Harry Shultis of Saugerties, Walter Quick of Rosendale, Harold Radcliffe of Kingston, Emerson Mayes of Clinton avenue and Joseph Block of Spring street.

TRAFFIC SAFETY VICTORIES

The victory dinner of the National Safety Council in Washington on April 21 will honor four states and seven cities for success in the 1940 national traffic safety contest. They saved the lives of 650 citizens by accident prevention programs.

The states are Connecticut, Oklahoma, Minnesota and Oregon. The cities are Washington; Dallas; Kansas City; Lakewood, O.; Watertown, N. Y., and La Grange, Ill. The four states had a composite mileage death rate 24 per cent below the national average. The cities cut their death rate 46 per cent below the national average.

If such improvement could be made anywhere, by taking thought and practicing courtesy and caution, it could be made everywhere. The yearly traffic death toll has been a monument to American indifference. Public authorities and private citizens should never be satisfied until this slaughter has been reduced to the lowest possible point.

ALL-AMERICAN MOVIES

Some citizens shudder at thought of the idea of this country which foreigners must get from Hollywood movies. Sometimes, too, governments of other countries protest against the misrepresentation of their own people.

Such complaints and fears will not be aroused by the movies now being prepared by a branch of the National Defense Council having the cumbersome name of Motion Picture Division of the Committee to Improve Cultural and Commercial Relations Between the Americas. Experts are studying thousands of feet of film already in existence from which informative one and two-reel movies will be pieced together. There will be such pictures about this country for Latin-American showing, and pictures about our neighbors for showing in the United States.

In addition, camera expeditions will soon be sent out to make non-theatrical films for the same purpose. They will deal with all sorts of subjects—inter-American commerce, arts, education, sports, travel, anything having value as information or entertainment. These, too, will be designed to help the people of all the Americas to get acquainted with each other.

MARX BROTHERS' FAREWELL

"We're sick of the movies. By that," says the honest Groucho Marx, "I mean that movie fans are about to get sick of us. By getting out now, we're just anticipating public demand, and by a very short margin."

With this characteristic comment, Groucho of the fierce eyebrows and queer mustache—not to mention the spectacles—announces the breaking up of the famous Marx brothers team. Groucho expects to become a radio performer. Chico wants to lead a swing band. Harpo says he will enter legitimate drama.

This must mark the end of an era, or something. The slapstick and mad waggery of the Marxes continued for some time after the pie-throwing and exaggerated pantomime of other movie comedians had vanished. Possibly it was because of the unique quality of their nuttiness and the fact that it was accompanied always by the cynical volubility of Groucho and the prolonged silence of Harpo.

And now, if they succeed in their new careers they will have proved themselves to be three smart fellows.

TOO MANY COLDS

Now that winter's past—we hope—it is not so distressing as it might have been in January to learn that 50,000,000 adults suffered from common colds between October and March and more than 20,000,000 were affected by flu. The loss of vitality and efficiency must be incalculable. Time lost for these ills is usually low individually but runs into the huge total of 59,000,000 working days—for employers, employees, laborers and white-collar workers, housewives and other adults.

Colds were slightly more common in small towns and country districts than in the cities, and they were more common with women than with men. They were spread rather evenly over all groups in the population, with less difference between the poor and the well-to-do in this respect than is commonly supposed.

It is easier to avoid colds than to stop them, once caught, before they have run their course. The survey of the past winter indicates that much more emphasis should be put on preventing them if the handicap they impose on general health and efficiency is to be cut down.

Owing to the influx of new federal employees, stimulated by the defense program, living conditions at the national capital are denounced as "disgraceful." Think how much worse it will be when everybody gets to working for the government.

Most of the war bulletins we get from Europe tell us what the generals and diplomats think about it. We would like to know a little about what the boys in the front line think of it.

According to a nation-wide poll American voters deplore the fall in the birthrate. Several reasons have been assigned for it. Maybe the stork is now on a forty-hour week.

"Some of us are just nuts about Brazil," says an enthusiast. Then why not organize a society of Brazil Nuts?

As for these contradictory war reports, maybe the philosopher was right and "truth is hidden at the bottom of a well."

The most important thing for Americans right now is to know what is going on in the world.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)
FIRST VISIT MAY NOT REVEAL CONDITION

A young man boxed as an amateur for five years, then as a professional for five years. The first year he turned professional he was motoring to a large city for an important bout. At a distance of one hundred miles from the city where he was to box, the car slid into the ditch and partly turned over. He was upset but unhurt. He then drove rapidly so as not to be late for the weighing in. The physician examining him did not like the rapid heart beat and the high blood pressure present. He was about to reject him when the boxer explained that he had always passed as fit in different cities including New York. Another physician present agreed that the boxer was "not quite fit to box" but that the upsetting of the car and the rapid driving thereafter might be responsible for the symptoms and he was allowed to box that night.

However, the questioning about the condition of his heart had so upset his "timing" that during his bout he boxed poorly and lost the bout.

Early next morning he returned to his home city excited and worried and reported to his physician. Sure enough, his heart rate was twenty beats above normal and his blood pressure was also up twenty points. His physician chatted with him for a little while, explained how his accident and rapid driving immediately afterwards could so upset his heart and blood pressure that the examiners for the boxing commission would have been justified in preventing him from boxing that evening. The physician pointed out that there was really no organic trouble present and he would not be prevented from boxing by any boxing commission unless he got excited or worried. His heart rate and blood pressure were again taken (about half an hour after the first test) and were found to be down to normal.

The point is that any emotional disturbance, any fear or worry about the result of a physical examination can so upset the body organs and processes—heart, blood pressure, stomach, bowel, bladder—that the real or true condition is hidden. Therefore do not be alarmed if at your first visit to a physician your pulse is rapid, blood pressure high, or urine shows a trace of albumen or sugar. If you are really normal, the second visit will show it. At least it does so in 9 out of 10 cases.

Why Worry About Your Heart?

Is your heart skipping beats? Does it seem to beat rapidly at times? Do you get out of breath easily on slight exertion? Send today for Dr. Barton's informative booklet entitled "Why Worry About Your Heart?" (No. 102) which tells the story of your heart in a simple manner. Address your request to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of handling and mailing, and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—The District of Columbia is going to have a new "mayor." The death of Sen. Morris Sheppard of Texas left vacant the important chairmanship of the Senate committee on military affairs, and Sen. Robert Rice Reynolds, the North Carolina booster, was in line.

Since Senator Reynolds was chairman of the Senate D. C. committee and therefore "mayor" of Washington and since, by Senate rules, he can't hold two such jobs, he will have to join the list of ex-hizzoners of the national capital.

"Mayor" Reynolds came in only a few months ago, but with a good deal of fanfare and now is undoubtedly the time to review the accomplishments and failures of his administration.

Although "Mayor" Reynolds' first official announcement was that he would like to see horse-racing in the District, so that Washington's exchequer might be fattened by the racing take that now goes to Maryland, his suggestion wasn't even dignified by introduction of a bill.

Traffic, instead of getting better, got worse—and the government had to resort to a drastic plan of staggered hours for federal employees to try to avoid the bottlenecks on the Washington streets that brought traffic almost to a snail's standstill around 9 in the morning and 5 in the afternoon.

Taxi Drivers Skeptical

The only physical effort to improve the traffic situation was the start of construction of an underpass at Scott Circle and the consensus of taxi drivers was that they are building the dip under the wrong way and that it would help only a little bit.

The "Mayor's" daughter got fined $5 for running a red light—the "Mayor" told her it was her own headache and she said, "It seems to be."

The housing situation grew steadily worse and trailer towns increased all around the District's rim.

Rents—already on a par with New York and London, where you can get an unlighted, dingy, unfurnished room in the soot belt for about the same as you pay for an eight-room house in the hinterlands—soared.

The hotel and rooming house situation got so bad that two west coast newspaper editors (ordinarily privileged gentlemen around these parts) had to stay in Baltimore and spend $33 for commutation.

"District days" in Congress (usually on Mondays when measures pertaining to the District of Columbia are considered) became duller and duller and freshmen congressmen discovered that was the day when they could make golfing dates and go fishing.

***

'Meeting' Plan Fizzled

The fiscal year is drawing to a close, but there has been nary a thing done about District finances—unless you call the day Congress booted out the District budget bill doing something about it.

The "Mayor" was going to hold modern versions of the old "town meetings" so District citizens could air their views and get things accomplished—a swell idea every one said—but it resulted in not a single meeting.

In words of a few syllables, "Mayor" Reynolds' regime was a fizzle. But don't blame "Mayor" Reynolds. His successor, and it probably will be Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo—"The Man" from Poplarville, Miss.—very likely won't be a bit better. The "mayors" job is Washington is like that.

A District commentator, writing about "mayor's" past, present and future, said there never was and never will be a successful one.

And the oldest living inhabitants bear him out.

Don't ask me why—because I can't prove a thing. Some of the native sons around here say it's because democracy won't work without ballot power. I don't know. After watching it for a while, I just know that if I had to be a mayor, I'd take Salome, Ariz., before I'd take the capital of the United States.

Peace in Bituminous Coal Fields Can Come Only With Elimination of Wage Differentials

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 21.—It's time to call a spade a spade in the deadlock that has arisen between the northern and southern coal operators, on the one hand, and the United Mine Workers Union. For when the nation's industries face a shortage of fuel at this critical period in the national defense program, the public is entitled to know what is going on behind the scenes.

Peace can come by a simple formula. It is for the Mine Workers' Union and the northern operators to give up their demand for the elimination of the wage differentials between northern and southern mines. It is the only major thing which blocks a settlement. This was no time to have injected the differential issue. This was no time for northern operators to have made such a gambling play as the cleverly devised signing of an agreement with the unions for a wage increase in the northern mines provided the southern operators agreed to the wiping out of the differential.

When business men or union chiefs take advantage of an emergency to introduce basic changes not called for at all at this time, it is necessary to draw the attention of the public to such tactics. The wage differential which exists in the soft coal industry exists also in many other industries. It is relatively lower in coal than in any other industry. But if the nation is to embark on a surgical operation on wage differentials between regions—something which even the N. R. A. found difficulty in ironing out—then national defense progress will be forfeited. Questions so fundamental and so controversial as wage differentials could easily be postponed a year or so or at least till the end of the war emergency and no real harm would be done.

The southern mine owners have offered a wage increase. They have not failed to meet the desires of the miners in almost every way, but when it comes to wiping out the wage differential they face economic disruption. The southern operations have a freight rate against them, too, in trying to compete with northern mines. President Roosevelt vaguely suggested the other day that something might be done about the freight situation to benefit the south, but this is a long-drawn-out procedure and there's no certainty that the Interstate Commerce Commission would yield to presidential suggestion on this point and certainly it takes months for such a hearing to be fought out.

The coal situation contains a principle whose application may prove dangerous to the nation. Is this the time for economic reform time to upset wage differentials and bring about new unionization campaigns and perhaps in the end economic south such labor turbulence as will delay progress in all its industries?

Once the wage differential is eliminated in coal, it furnishes a basis for agitation in all other southern industries and then turmoil is invited. Why can't the northern operators agree to let the wage differential problem alone for two years and then reopen it?

It will be recalled that the wage differential is an old tradition. It was originally 80 cents a day less than the northern wage scale. In N. R. A. days after much deliberation it was cut down in 1933 to 40 cents and there it has remained ever since. Just why it should be interjected now is a mystery, but evidently the mine workers chieftains played a shrewd game. They played on the selfish interests of competitors when they promised the northern operators that the southern mines would not be permitted to reopen unless the differential was wiped out. These are the dictatorships that collective bargaining has brought. It will hurt that cause immeasurably. Naturally if the C. I. O. can eliminate wage differentials in coal it means the start of unionization drives in everything else in the south. Why does this particular moment have to be selected for the intrusion of issues that can only wreck America's defense program?

The President and the secretary of labor have a responsibility for what is happening. They have indirectly encouraged the present result probably being misled into a belief that once the northern operators and the union came to an agreement, the south would have come in. But the southern operators who have been pleading that the issues be taken to the national defense mediation board have not seen it that way. All along they have said they couldn't and wouldn't accept the elimination of wage differentials at this time.

The sooner the merit of the southern operators plea is recognized the better it will be for the nation's fuel supply. Already steel furnaces are shutting down because of shortages of coal. It is a situation that calls for full publicity and in this the administration could render a real service, for when the public knows the facts it will want the 1933 status on wage differentials maintained and the mines reopened at once. First The Fields

By Charles Wood

There are a number of things, some curious, which come between the reader and complete enjoyment of a novel by Charles Wood called "First The Fields." I am inclined to think that the most important is the fact that the book is published by a university press and university presses have small experience with fiction.

Mr. Wood knows the tobacco country of North Carolina. He knows the people who live there, the technique of tobacco culture, the problems of the farmers out-side the fields, the financial set-up in which the business must exist.

It would be impossible to imagine a more honest presentation of the whole matter than is to be found in "First The Fields," and the book is altogether lacking in those commonplace devices which practiced writers sometimes use to put a "lift" in their work.

But its effectiveness as fiction is limited by the manner of telling, and by the abundance of clichés. Mr. Wood has been allowed to write everything straight out, as if his novel were a succession of excellent news stories. The effect is like looking at a charming view after day from exactly the same spot.

And Mr. Wood's people seem always to bid each other good night, gain insight, pass out of sight, let things go unheeded, hang like a dark cloud, congregate around the drugstores, bury their faces in books, magazines and the like. Nobody knows better than I the one does not write a page without a few standard expressions thereupon. But an editor with a pair of cliché-tweezers could have done a good deal for "First The Fields."

Doing it would have left Mr. Wood's sincerity unobscured and the dialogue, which rather often seems stiff.

On the other side, I must say that once I had started "First The Fields" I kept at it. The determination of Hugh Winton to stick by the farm his father left him led him through bitter years, and I had to know his path, and its end.

So we've adopted Greenland—an oversize ice cube with landing facilities. We had to bulge the Monroe Doctrine a trifle, but in times like these Monroe's words are apt to lay themselves open to wide interpretation. When we speak of Europe being a hop-skip-and-jump from the U. S., Greenland is the hop. The government decided a No Parking Zone sign was in order before any foreign nations got more ideas than a cat in a canary cage. It certainly gives one a grand feeling to be back in his old home town again.

500 Persons Plan To Attend Legion Party, Officer Says

Ticket Demand Has Caused

Chairman To Enlarge His

Original Plans; More

Tickets Released

When the American Legion birthday party is held Friday night in Golden Rule Inn, there will be 500 Legionnaires, their wives and friends in attendance, Jerry Martin, commander of Kingston Post, and assistant general chairman, reported today.

"Because of the efficient way in which plans for the party were handled by General Chairman William T. Roedel, the social event should be one of the most successful ever sponsored by Kingston Post," said Commander Martin.

At the outset, Chairman Roedel planned on catering to 400 at the party, but after the entertainment features and other plans were announced, tickets were in such great demand that the quota was exhausted within a short time.

Collaborating with the management of Golden Rule Inn, Chairman Roedel made arrangements for special tables to take care of 100 extra people, and more tickets were released.

Over the week-end, chairmen of the various committees reported on their respective activities. Past Commander Morton Finch has arrangements completed for a WOR band to play for dancing from 9 o'clock until 3 a. m. Edward Hills said that the entertainment is ready with a lineup of real celebrities to perform for the gathering, starting at 11:30 o'clock.

As master of ceremonies there will be Lazy Dan, formerly the old minstrel man of radio fame, who is now playing as Gaston. He is in popular demand for personal appearances.

Jimmy Shields, popular radio tenor, is another star on the bill of entertainment. "We feel very fortunate in having procured Lazy Dan and Jimmy Shields," said Chairman Finch of the entertainment committee. And he added, "Because of the strong friendship between General Chairman Roedel and N. M. Abramson of the WOR artists' bureau, we are getting several additional acts not previously announced. Mr. Abramson promises the special attractions Sunday when he heard of the great success in regard to ticket sales. 'I want to do my share and a little more toward making this party a real gala affair,' he said."

In charge of the reception committee will be Lester Elmendorf and Eugene B. Carey, past commanders of Kingston Post. Legionnaires Stanley Matthews and Sam N. Mann are handling the task of rounding up all the past commanders to attend the event.

Although the party was arranged originally just for a good time, and not as a profit-making affair, there will be enough money left after expenses are paid, to purchase a hospital bed for use by convalescents in their homes after they leave institutions in this vicinity. The bed will be available at the American Legion.

LIFE'S AIMS—People respect a man who knows exactly what he wishes. The greater part of the mischief in this world arises from the fact that men do not sufficiently understand their own aims. They hop from this to that like a chameleon—and with the same results.

Man—Is your wife economical? Friend—Occasionally. She had only 25 candles on her birthday cake when she observed her 34th birthday.

Salesman—Is the boss in? Office Girl—I am sorry he is not. Salesman—Will he be back after a little. Office Girl—I think he's out after a little.

Life is short out there is time to get plenty done if we work at it.

George—Remember that co-ed who was always flirting with the professors so she could get good grades? Amos—Yeah, what's she doing now? George—Petting the milkman so she'll be sure to get Grade A.

You're going some place if you are on the right track—and don't just sit there.

Looking Ahead
Waste no time in hatreds.
Have a better aim.
What seems now a hardship
May promote your fame.

Roberta—Did you count with a daisy to see if Jack loves you? Ruth—No indeed, it might have turned out wrong. I used a three leafed clover.

"Talk is all right; it's a lot of fun and we like it. But it is only by work, work and more work that we can achieve our goal—to build our defenses as quickly as possible."

Mrs. Gee—William, how do you suppose those dozens of empty bottles got into the cellar? Mr. Gee—I'm sure I don't know. I never bought an empty bottle in my life.

Wishful Thinking
From the standpoint of truth, O what is so rare
As those "family pants" the men claim to wear?

Boggs—Has Oscar changed much? Voggs—He thinks so. Boggs—How so? Voggs—He's always talking about what a fool he used to be.

Expression
Produce poor puns;
A pungent pun
Emits no fun.
Unless it be most deftly spun;
And yet a joke of any mold,
No matter if it's stale and old,
Will get a laugh and be extolled,
If it is only rightly told.

Someday I'll Find You

BY MARGARET WILDEME

YESTERDAY, Eileen Gardner was the prize graduate of the year at the university, and until a complete stranger named Martin stole her heart, she seemed to have her future cut out for her. The difficulty now is that she does not know where Martin took her heart, and she must somehow make it clear to Jordan Estill that she cannot marry him without admitting what has happened to her. All Eileen has of Martin is a tiny gold ski he dropped.

Chapter Six Tete A Tete

JORDAN ordered with unaccustomed lavishness. It touched her—as if he was afraid he hadn't been giving her a good enough time, spending enough on her. She wanted to say, "Oh, please don't—it isn't that!" But she couldn't. Any man would rather think his gifts had failed, than that he had.

The musicians filed in when they were half through, and Jordan—again—suggested dancing immediately. Usually he lingered through any moments he had with her alone.

She had not danced here since commencement night. Not since Martin had bought her a new dress and she had worn it with that quick grace and strength she remembered now—it must have been very good. He had been neither awkward nor overbalanced; it had been all quick, casual-seeming motion.

Martin, Martin, M.D. That sounded like a doctor, but he wasn't a doctor, though he might have been old enough, if he had time to fly from New York to say good-bye to somebody, and then fly on to the coast just to get a moa in New Zealand. Not really. He was just racking about the moa.

She laughed suddenly there in Jordan's arms, and he looked down and said, "What is it, Eileen?" and she came back, almost losing step, to Jordan, and most of all, the blank feeling that there was no Martin. That if it hadn't been for the gold ski on her bracelet—the whole of Martin was something quite unreal and untrue.

"Jordan, what's a moa?"

He answered as she had known he would, seriously.

"It's a recently extinct bird—one of those big birds with useless wings, like the penguin. The last were killed in New Zealand."

Martin couldn't ever bring her one, then. He wouldn't have any. It was all a crazy dream. The reality was—schoolteacher aunts, an instructor lover, a neat sound safe routine.

People were beginning to sift in as they returned to their tables; their own crowd, calling to them cheerfully, waving, brushing them, and stopping a moment to gossip as they went by. A good crowd, a crowd she belonged to this long time. All greeting her up, the old way.

"I love them," she said impulsively to Jordan.

"They love you," he said.

"Eileen, everybody loves you. You belong in this town."

"For heaven's sake," she said impatiently, "you act as if I were going off to the other side of the continent in a covered wagon."

Jordan was not a stupid man. He was slow-spoken and set and a little shy, that was all.

He said, "Eileen, part of you has."

"What on earth do you mean?"

"Something happened commencement night."

"Well, of course."

He said, "Don't fence."

She held herself very still. She hadn't realized that Jordan had seen anything.

"Well," she said lightly, "except for commencement and the dancing here, and the Oronodonk party—all of which happen every year—what happened, would you know?"

He frowned.

"You don't know—as if part of you was gone away. I can't say it clearer than that."

"It certainly isn't very clear."

He frowned.

"I've been thinking. Wondering. And I wondered if it wasn't Miss Willesdon."

Almost Right

SO CLOSE, and yet so far off!

Eileen said, with relief: "What makes you think so?"

"She's a spellbinder. Most of the women who did her job have forgotten all about it, or dried up into frustration from getting what they wanted. But that woman's high-powered; she's ruthless and charming; she could make anybody do anything. When I heard her talk I was nearly wept away myself; she practically had me sold on—"

Jordan spoke more harshly than usual—"suggesting that I turn into a clinging vine for some strong girl to support."

Eileen felt herself coloring. "But that's silly. That isn't an issue any more. We do the best we can, just as it happens."

He nodded. "Of course. But somehow I wondered, because I couldn't think of anything else, if what she said about girls shamelessly and frankly proposing to men they happened to like had got you."

Eileen giggled. "Suppose it had?"

"You might have some sort of crazy idea of going off and—"

"And making a career of it?"

Poultrymen Form New Market Plan

Improved System Presents Benefits for All

Ithaca, N. Y., April 21 — Better eggs for New York city and more money to upstate producers has resulted from a new marketing arrangement by Genesee county poultrymen.

In the past the poultrymen took their chances in the New York market. There were difficulties in regard to grading, packing, shipping, maintaining high quality, and to the high cost of distribution in the metropolitan area. Today, it is done through one cooperative agency, and the eggs bring premium prices. These difficulties, it is said, have spurred producers and county agents throughout the state to find newer and more efficient marketing methods for agricultural products.

Assistant County Agent J. E. Dalrymple helped to start the ball rolling by visiting poultrymen throughout the county to see who shipped eggs to New York city and who might be interested in a new marketing setup. With Professor H. E. Botsford of Cornell's poultry department a study was made of the quality of eggs produced. Several meetings were held by the county's poultry committee.

A farm cooperative agreed to establish a purchasing unit in Batavia, pick up the eggs twice a week, repack split cases, or cases in which the eggs were not uniform as to grade, and label the cases according to their quality. The manager was to pay for the eggs on the basis of four grades, with the producers' current prices as a basis.

The Batavia unit ships the eggs by truck to the cooperative's receiving store in Manhattan. Because quality is assured, the New York store is able to line up orders for these eggs by telephone ahead of time, and when they reach New York they need not be unloaded from the truck but can be delivered immediately to the jobber, or delicatessen store, or whoever has an order for them.

At present the marketing is handled simply, with the county's agricultural extension poultry committee serving only as advisors. The farm cooperative has taken it over as part of its own produce. It has three units in the county and is planning to start some more this year, according to Dalrymple.

About 130 poultrymen in the county now sell their eggs this way. Farmers have reported gains of from one-half cent to three and four cents a dozen. The total volume of eggs has been 19,000 cases with a value of more than $100,000 for the past 13 months. Sometimes the eggs go to Albany, Buffalo, or Syracuse, when these markets can pay more.

Other benefits cited from this marketing system are an improvement in egg quality because of an improvement in marketing practices; most farmers now collect their eggs more often, they have remodeled nests to prevent breakage or have provided an egg-holding room in the cellar instead of leaving eggs in the barn or kitchen.

Farmers not satisfied with the grades can watch their eggs graded and get cooperation in improving them. They have found that the market for high-quality eggs seems unlimited.

Ticklish Question Of Peace or War For United States

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer
Washington—The ticklish question of peace or war for the United States constantly bobs up in fiery debate in Congress.

Editors, citizens, business men who come to Washington from many parts of the country are asking each other questions, or answering them.

"Are we now at war? If we convey aid to Britain, will we be at war?"

It happens to me nearly every day. Somebody asks me one of these questions—or tries to answer one of them for me. I don't know the answers. But I have looked up the history books and consulted international legal authorities.

First, you must decide for yourself the question of whether the struggle of two political ideas, such as totalitarianism and democracy, is, in itself, warfare. Some historians interpret such a struggle as war. Others say no.

Second, can you call a trade struggle warfare—such as the scrap for markets between Democracy's private enterprise, and Totalitarianism's barter system. That also you will have to decide for yourself. The ultra-modern economist says no. The international lawyer says yes.

The lawyer bases his opinion on the belief that economic rivalry is natural between nations, whatever their economic, political, or financial systems.

Finally, you come to the question of, "When does war start?" or "At what point does a disagreement between nations become a war?" Here the lawyer can give you something to sink your teeth into. He tells me warfare starts legally with a declaration or with the engagement of the military forces of two or more nations.

That squares also, say the lawyers, with the time-honored popular concept of war—that wars start with armed combat on battlefields, with bloodshed.

So, we can conclude we are not now at war with any power, either legally, or under the popular concept of war.

By the standard legal and popular definition, conveying would not of itself be an act of war. Either a declaration of war or an armed clash would have to come first.

But there are interesting sidelights on this point. There are three kinds of causes of war—remote, immediate, and the pretext.

Take the World War as an example. A remote cause was the struggle for empire and trade between the Kaiser's Germany, and the British commonwealth. The immediate cause was the continuing acts of irritation of both those powers and their friends, such as Germany's fleet expansion, Britain's international diplomacy. The pretext was the assassination of the Archduke of Austria by a Serbian zealot at Sarajevo.

Lawyers and historians generally agree that there are now in existence both remote and immediate causes for an armed clash between the United States and other world powers. There are the political and economic clashes of two systems of government, for instance. More immediate is American aid to Britain, or totalitarian propaganda in the United States.

There we have remote and immediate causes for war, but neither the United States nor any other power has seized on any one act of the other as a pretext.

It is entirely possible that the United States and nations with whom we disagree on many things can set an international record for restraint, and find no pretext for war.

But world events of the last few months have moved fast. Violent, fast moving events are breeders of pretext for war. Finding a pretext for war doubtless would be fairly simple for the United States or the totalitarian powers, if the nations wanted a pretext.

Avoiding a pretext, while not so easy, is just as feasible at this time. For the fact remains—by legal definition and popular belief—we are not now at war.

114 Runs Scored By Major Leagues In Seven Games

Yankees Shell Athletics by 19-5; Reds Beat Bucs, 7 to 3; Red Sox in First Place

(By The Associated Press)

This, marking the start of the second week of the major league baseball season, should by rights bring pause for reflection, a check-back on the pre-season estimates and how they are holding up under the early firing.

In the light of yesterday's developments, however, this corner feels anyone to come up with a reasonable, logical analysis. This corner itself has not yet even come up for air, buried as it is under base hits and horrible statistics.

Giants in First

For those who insist on analysis, however, here is the situation: In the National League the New York Giants, who were not supposed to make the first division, are in first place, having lost their first game in six starts to Brooklyn yesterday, 10-9. The Cincinnati Reds, favored to repeat for the pennant, are next to last and attained that eminence only by winning their last two games, including a 7-3 job on the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday.

In the American League, barring the presence of the scorned Boston Red Sox in first place with a record of five wins and no (none at all) losses, things are not quite so strange. After all the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees are figured to run one-two either way you name 'em, and at the moment they're running two-three.

Enough of such trivia, however. Let us rather delve into the dark adventures which befell 14 supposedly major league baseball teams on a Sunday afternoon (the St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox got off easy—it was so cold in Chicago they couldn't play).

In the National League there were four games. These produced, says the adding machine, 62 runs, 100 hits, 18 errors and 27 pitchers, or an average of 15 runs, 25 hits, four errors and seven pitchers per game. There were three games in the American League. These turned up 52 runs, 67 hits, 12 errors and 15 pitchers, also an average per game of far too many.

Ruffing Goes Route

In both leagues there was only one pitcher able to go nine innings. He was the Yankees' Red Ruffing, who gave the Philadelphia Athletics 10 hits but got such stupendous support from his mates he could have pitched 'em underhand. This support took in three homers, two by Joe Gordon, and one with the bases full by Joe DiMaggio; six straight hits and eight runs in the fifth, and a six-run ninth.

The score was 19-5, and the victim Chubby Dean, who had humbled the Yanks in their home opener but lived to regret it.

The best pitching, however, was a two-man, six-hit job by Mel Harder and Joe Heving, who heaved the Indians to a 4-2 verdict over the Detroit Tigers. The other American League game was a mauling match which the Red Sox won from the Washington Senators, 14 to 8.

Mel Ott Slams Two

In the senior circuit things were even better, or worse. The Dodgers and Giants drew a record Polo Grounds crowd of 56,314, and every man got his money's worth, what with five homers, two by Mel Ott; nine pitchers, and the winning run scored from second by the Reds' conchito of the Pirates, Ralph Kiner, who hit only three winter book favorites have gone on to win the Derby—Morvich in 1922, Reigh Count in 1928 and Galant Fox in 1930. The high-rider Giants would like to get Jimmy Brown from the Cardinals. . . . Henry Armstrong, who made his big town debut as a band leader at a testimonial dinner last night, can use a little long green which may be just what's behind that comeback talk. Remember Tony Canzoneri, Henry.

Team Meets Tonight

There will be an important organization meeting of St. Peter's softball team tonight at 8 o'clock in the schoolhouse on Adams street. All young men interested in the sport are requested to attend.

Manager Hoffman Confers With Battery

Here's Joe Hoffman, newly appointed manager of the Recreation, giving his battery hopefuls a few inside points of the pitching and catching art as his players assembled yesterday afternoon for the first 1941 practice session. Hoffman is seen talking to Bob Bush, ace of last year's pitching department; George Celuch, newcomer, who is trying to gain a mound berth; Vince Stoll, expected replacement of George Zadany and Charlie Neff, another of last year's hurlers. Other players who attended the drill Sunday were Charlie Lay, Jimmy Turk, Les Brink, Elmer Hopper, Jimmy Ashdown, Bing Van Etten, Eddie Wallace, George McLean and Babe Volker, coach. After the first practice Joe Hoffman announced that the Recs will drill at Barmann Park until the stadium is ready. Three practices a week will be the menu for the locals until the campaign gets under way.

Recreations Hold First Practice

For the first time this spring Joe Hoffman, manager of the Kingston Recreation, had a look at his club in practice at Hasbrouck Park as the team held its initial workout. Besides all of last year's players Hoffman had on hand plenty of newcomers who hope to make the team. In the picture are four of 1940 regulars who will have to show a lot if they expect to regain their positions on the club. They are left to right, Vince Smedes, Andy Celuch, Bill Thomas and Mac Tiano. Smedes, Tiano and Thomas played most of the games last year in the outer gardens and Celuch proved himself as an able third baseman throughout the season.

Roosevelt and King Agree Upon Interchange of Needs For Continental Defense

Washington, April 21 (AP)—President Roosevelt returned to Washington this morning after a week-end at his home at Hyde Park.

Speedy mobilization of North America's resources, calling for the interchange of defense articles by the United States and Canada, has been agreed upon by President Roosevelt and Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King. Designed for the dual purpose of hastening aid to Great Britain and other democracies and for defense of this hemisphere, the agreement was announced in a joint statement last night after a seven-hour conference between Mr. Roosevelt and the Canadian leader at the President's Hudson valley home, Hyde Park. Both then left for their respective posts in Washington and Ottawa.

"It was agreed upon as a general principle," the statement said, "that in mobilizing the resources of this continent each country should provide the other with the defense article which it is best able to produce, and, above all, produce quickly, and that production programs should be coordinated to this end."

During the next year, the statement added, it was hoped Canada could supply the United States with $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 worth of defense articles "urgently required by the United States."

"Certain kinds of munitions, strategic materials, aluminum and ships" were mentioned in this respect.

In that period, the statement said, Canadian purchases would be even greater than in the past. Pending ironing out of technical and financial details, it was understood between the statesmen that Canada would receive payment for the supplies so as to defray part of the cost of its defense purchases in this country.

Insofar as Canada's defense purchases in the United States consist of component parts to be used in equipment and munitions which Canada is producing for Great Britain," the statement went on, "it was also agreed that Great Britain will obtain these parts under the Lease-Lend Act and forward them to Canada for inclusion in the finished articles."

Issuance of a joint statement by the President and Mrs. King repeated last summer's procedure in which, after a conference at Ogdensburg, N. Y., they announced formation of a joint permanent defense board for the neighboring nations.

The opening paragraph of the new formal document indicated that the President and the Prime Minister also discussed other matters, but what they were was not disclosed.

The statement began: "Among other important matters, the President and the Prime Minister discussed measures by which the most prompt and effective utilization might be made of the productive facilities of North America for the purposes both of local and hemisphere defense and of the assistance which in addition to their own programs, both Canada and the United States are rendering to Great Britain and the other democracies."

Financial and Commercial

Prices of Stocks Dropped Further During Last Week

Unfavorable news from both the foreign and domestic fronts the past week kept stock prices almost continuously on the losing side and security values as measured in the Dow-Jones averages substantially extended the losses shown in the previous week.

The average of 30 industrials, which dropped 5.72 points in the week ended April 12, had a net loss last week of 2.45, closing Saturday at 116.15. The rail average was off 1.7 point for the week, after dropping 1.68 on the previous week, now standing at 27.72. Utilities closed the week at 18.17, a further loss the past week of .52 point. Small losses were shown in Saturday dealings, with prices continuing under mild pressure, and at the close the industrial and utility averages were at the lowest point since July, 1940. Volume Saturday was low, but 230,110 shares being sold. U. S. Steel broke through 50 for the first time since last July, but closed at 50 1/4, up 1/4 for the day. General Motors, which led the active list Saturday, broke 3/4, closing at 38 3/4, a new low for the year.

The continued unfavorable news from the war front last week included not only the collapse of Yugoslavia and steady retreat of the Greek-British forces, but the worst air raid yet on London. Only bright spots were the sinking of an Italian convoy in the Mediterranean and the stopping of the German drive in Libya. At home came the announcement that automobile production would be cut 20 per cent, a reduction of about a million cars and trucks for the season beginning August 1; prediction that federal taxes would be lifted three and a half billion dollars and threats to steel production because of the continuance of the strike in the soft coal fields.

The latter is being felt in shortage of coke. Carnegie-Illinois may have to shut down 18 per cent of its blast furnaces (five already have been banked) and steel production in the Pittsburgh district dropped to 96 per cent of capacity because of scarcity of coke.

The British treasury announced last night that, effective April 19, it was taking over additional American securities from British private owners. The order covers 125 stock issues and 34 bonds. Many prominent issues are included in the order, but total value of the securities was not disclosed. Up to date it is estimated that the government has taken over American securities from its nationals, to the value of around $950,000,000. Of this amount perhaps $400,000,000 has been liquidated in U. S. markets.

It is expected that a program for complete overhauling of the Securities Acts will be placed before Congress within the next few weeks as the result of joint conferences between the S. E. C. and investment experts. Proposed changes would ease financing controls and particular attention is being given to financing needs of the defense program.

General Motors, which has been threatened with a strike by the C. I. O., has informed the Michigan Labor Mediation Board that it has a total of $315,833,575 worth of defense business in its Michigan plants. The board has power to require a 10-days wait before a strike can be called.

The Merchants' Association of New York is urging a uniform federal daylight saving law to speed industrial production for defense purposes. Daylight saving goes into effect in 17 states Sunday, April 27.

Hercules Powder Co., after setting aside a reserve of about $1,600,000 to take care of taxes at the present rate, and an additional contingency fund of $400,000 to cover anticipated tax increases, reported a balance of earnings equal to 93 cents a common share. In the like quarter last year the company earned equivalent of $1.22 a share.

Cementon Youth Held on Charge

James Vetter, 21, Wanted Also in Greene County

James Vetter, 21, of Cementon, was held at the Ulster county jail last night pending arraignment today before Justice Charles H. Bennett of Saugerties on a burglary charge. He is also wanted by Greene county authorities for petit larceny and in addition was at the time of his arrest on probation from the Ulster county jail.

Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Keefe, who were on a special detail to Margaretville Sunday afternoon, picked up Vetter, for whom they had been looking for several days on the Greene county charge. He was turned over to Trooper Reilly of the B.C.I. and investigation brought a burglary charge against him. He is charged with having entered the summer home at Blue Mountain of James Symington, a Long Island City resident, a week ago Sunday. It is alleged that he slept in the Symington cottage and helped himself to foodstuff which he found there.

Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Keefe arrested Vetter in May last year, charged with burglary in one of the cottages at Blue Mountain. He was given a year's jail term, but as he had already been in jail for some six months, the balance of the sentence was suspended during good behavior and he was placed on probation.

American Oil Produces Markets New Gasoline

Returning today, from a sales and advertising conference, held at DeWitt Clinton Hotel, Albany, C. O. Fromer, local representative for the American Oil Co., stated that through the completion of the world's first commercial hydro-forming unit, his company is marketing a new type gasoline.

The hydroforming process, he stated, is of great interest to national defense because it not only produces a new high anti-knock gasoline for automobiles, but it opens a new source for the production of high octane aviation gasoline and a large potential supply of toluene, a substance vitally needed in the manufacture of T.N.T.

Officials of the company, he said, told of the new robot control board used in the manufacture of this product. The control board removes the element of chance during manufacture and guarantees precise uniformity of the product.

The product from the Texas City plant will be blended into the principal grades of gasoline marketed by the American Oil Co.

Jumpy Nerves Calm Down When Given Proper Care

Those dreadful days when everything seems to go wrong! Your nerves taut, you could simply scream. If you're having many such days it's time to ask yourself seriously, "Is something wrong with me? Is my health going to pieces?" Often nervous tension comes from worry over a problem you hate to think about, but which persistently gnaws at you. Try to bring it out in the open, separate facts from fears. Then get your mind on something amusing—plan a gay party, see a funny movie! Wise to watch your general health, too. Wrong diet, lack of sleep and insufficient exercise can play havoc with nerves! Or you may find perhaps your "nerves" are caused by anemia or other physical disorder. ## STEPMOTHER MAKES PLEA FOR CONSIDERATION FROM MARRIED CHILDREN WHO BRING THEIR BROODS TO OLD HOME

I want especially to thank the reader who generously gave me permission to print the following letter: "Your answer to the stepmother who was beginning to resent the persistent coolness of her husband's grown married children when they came home to visit with their broods, interested me because I am a stepmother in the same situation. You were wise to remind the other stepmother that she must make her own way with these children and their families, but one thing that I think in fairness to her you should explain is that very often the cards are stacked against a stepmother before the game begins, and that only a very skillful player can escape defeat with a losing hand.

"Many grown children with families of their own choose to consider their father's second wife a sort of housekeeper whom he acquired to relieve them of looking after him, and to cater to their needs when they come home to visit. Accordingly, their attitude is that she is not really on an equal plane with any of them. They resent any woman's being in the position their mother held, and coldly formal to the stepmother. This is especially so, I think, when the father marries a professional woman—his secretary or a nurse who took care of him in an illness. "You have an immense understanding, which is why I am taking it for granted that you may want to hear my story."

To this there is no answer further than to suggest to those who have stepmothers or stepfathers that they at least try to mitigate personal resentment with fairness of judgment, and show kind appreciation to one to whom great appreciation is perhaps due.

But again, I'd like to tell my readers how very much I appreciate letters of personal opinion about — or experience in — situations previously discussed in this column. I shall be only too glad to print them as I have this one (without names, of course) for the value that real experiences are likely to prove to those personally interested.

Living Room Decoration

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it in bad taste to have vases displayed in the living room simply as ornaments? I believe I have read where you said that a centerpiece without a cover on it, or without having something in it, should not be used on a dining table. After reading this and thinking about it I began wondering whether this also applied to the living room.

Answer: An empty vase—or particularly an empty bowl—looks very miserable as a dining-table centerpiece. But elsewhere vases that are in themselves decorative may certainly be used without flowers wherever they look well. Ordinary utility vases and bowls, which are often the most practical for flowers, are not as a rule becoming to a room when left standing empty.

The three types of table service are helpfully explained in Emily Post's booklet, "The Etiquette of Service," which you may have by sending ten cents. Address Emily Post, in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.
